Husband and Wife Will Cleave to Each Other by Means of Technicality.

There are several Catholic cemeteries in and about Chlengo. This is a story of one of them. The person concerned in lt, however, are still living. They are an Irish woman, her husband, who is a German, nud a worthy priest, the pastor of a large congregation in this city. The woman is a devout Catholic, a member of his flock. Her husband is a memher of no particular flock. He was a more or less devout Luthersn before he met the pair of Irlsh eyes that led hlm to the alter. Since then he has occupied a neutral ground in matters of religion. making a compromise between his conviction and his do nestic happiness. She has done all the praying and the church-going for both lor ever so many years since they were married. They never had children. They both were industrious and economical, and they plodded along together happily, making money and saving it until they found themselves tich. Then he rethred from business and they sat back at of the "Star Spangled Banner." their ease to enjoy the reward of their loag years of labor. They thought they had put nside ail the cares and troubles of life and would drift down, idly content, to the shores of eternity. But she had shared the worry and concerns olhis business affairs so long that she was only content when plan-shadow came into her thoughta and she told hlm of it. "We have been together along time," she said.

he answered. "We do not know whether we will be together in the next world, seeing as you are a Protestant."

glimpse of the old love light in her eyes once more.

had repeated it a hulf-dozen times His English vocabulary yhad alwas word "yes" predominated. Here was an extensive one and it was always at command. She said no more on the subthen, but went to see her pastor, grown larger and darker, and there was a troubid look on her face because ol it. She told her husband what had passed between herself and her pastor, lor that was what gave herthe trouble look. "A protestant can never he buried in that cemetery ground," she said. "Is that ao?" he asked.

"That's just what he told me," ahe

He looked troubled, too, at that, and they were both thoughtful and silent. Nothing was said on the subject for several days. Then her thinking habit brought relief.

"That would not he burying you in

The idea had never occurred to her ol going with hlu to a Protestant cemetery, where they would be admitted, but ll it had lt would have been just the same. She would not have entertained it. Even so she had solved the problem. She bought a lot in the cemetery and he had plans drawn up for a handsome mausoleum. He had it huilt of enduring granite with pondeaous doors of iron as the Rhenish citsdels of feudal times.

"Well, father," she sald, "we will] be huried together anyway." And good man took on a troubled look. "How is that, my good woman?" be asked.

BRUIN JONES.

BY P. W. HOHX.

'Captain, who was the hest soldier you ever knew?"

This question was propounded recently to Capt. Bronaugh, the present coni oil inspector of St. Louis, and a man who has seen enough of war to make his judgment in regard to soldlers worth something.

"Well, I hardly know," was the reply, but I cau teil you very easily who was the best fighter I ever

"What's the difference?" "There's a grent deal of differ-ence. To be a good soldier one must have cournge, patience and endurance, discipline and a great many other things. To be a good fighter one only needs to have plenty of the devil in him. . I can't say in regard to the best soldier, but the best fighter I ever knew was undoubtedly a man named Jones. I have no lden what his first name reatly was, but our men all called him Bruln, for reasons I think you can guess when you benr the story. He was a member of my company, but I have no recollection of how or when he joined us. The first day I remember ever to have seen him was the 15th of August, 1862, just the day before the awful fight at Loue

It seems that on that date all the companies in Lewis' regiment were reorganized, and that the voting for officers was all done by ballot. When it came to Bronaugh's company every vote read was east for him for captain except the inst one. To the surprise of everyone, the last vote was called out in stentorian tones: "The devli."

At the announcement of this unexpected vote, the men stared around at each other in amnzement. "Say," remarked the wit of the company at last, "that fellow ought to have better manners than vote for himself."

In the laugh that followed all the company joined except Jonea. He stood stiff as a ramrod, with a countenance like that of Mephistopheles, until the laugh had subsided, and then he remarked:

"He voted for a hlamed sight hetter man than Bronaugh, aaywny." I think that the reader will concede that when the captain compilments Mr. Jones' fighting qualities, It is not because of any special personal friendship for him. He was a man of about thirty years of age, below medlum helght, slender, clean shaven, dark complexion, and was very much like a hawk in the keenness of his eyes, the curvature of hla nose, the musicalness of his volco and the general ambahilty of his disposition. The captala sums up the case by saying: "He was soured on the world and all the rest of mankind."

He was never known to agree with anybody on any subject that could be mentloned. Tho nearest he ever came to It was one day in camp, when the soldiers happened to he discussing the character of Abraham Lincoln, and one of them forcibly expressed the opinion that he was the greatest scoundrel that ever llved.

"Yesi" exclaimed Jones, with a profusion of lurid language, "there's only one more contemptible hound lu the universe than Lincoln."

"Who's he?"

"Jeff Davis," he replied, with ali the withering contempt he could crowd into the words. From this speech it may be imagined that while Mr. Jones hated the union, he dld not adore the confederacy. The boys in camp suggested that he wore the gray merely because he had more men to shoot at than if he wore the blue. There was no duty too hard for hlm, no ulght too cold or rainy for him to stand guard, no fight too daugerous for him, provided only he was allowed to have his fill of profaulty and abuse for the world in general. Oucowhen It was binted that the artiliery was not strong enough to dislodge a certain hattery belonging to the enemy,

He would not only curse the federals, but the confederates also, the officers as well as the men. Soveral times he was known to knock his messmates down with the flat side of a spade, and then If he was so hacousiderate as to remonstrate to threaten him with the edge. Owing to such trults in him as these, the men gradually grew unwilling to eat with him, so that for months he was a veritable hermit, though surrounded hy men. No one spoke to hlm or had anything of any kind to do with him, when it could in any way be avolded, and this seemed to be exactly what he wanted. About this time he was nicknamed 'Brulu," not only on account of his bearlike temper, but also because the solltary figure, squatting about by his camp fire, eating his own food, and holding converse with no one, was very much like that of n from injuring anything.

erably smoothly for awhile, but before loug Capt. Bronaugh and his men decided that If It could be done they would like very much to get Bruin transferred to some other compnny. There were just two difficul-thes in the wny of this. In the first place, no captain who knew blin very well would consent to take him, and In the second place, if Bruin knew that Bronaugh and his men did not want him, he would insist most strenuously on stnying. Both these difficulties were circumvented by a little strategy. In the company of Capt. Boles there was a man named Eph Goff, a Henry county man, a brave soldier and an ardent friend of Bronaugh. He is at present llving on his farm near Clinton, and is snid to be as rollieksome and as fond of his joke now as he was then. One day Bronaugh approached Boles, ex-plained the situation and asked that M. I. HEAVEIN. SHILBY TAYLOR. Goff be transferred to his company.

'Ali right," said Cupt. Boles. 'Who can you give me in his piace?' "Well, I've got a man named Jones you can have.'

"Is he a good soldler?" "The best fighter I ever saw."
"Done," said Capt. Boies, and that part of the matter was settled.

The only thing now remaining was to get Brnln's consent to be transferred, and this was done in the foilowing mnnner: "Mr. Jones," snld Capt. Bronaugh one day, "I understand you are try-Ing to get out of my company and Into Capt. Boles'. I want you to understand, sir, that I don't propose to permit you to do anything of the kind. If nn officer has got to be losing his men for every little fool reason that mny come up, there'd just as well not be any officer at all." Bruin looked a little dazed at this statement of the case, and then remarked that he'd he dash blank dashed if he would stay in any such double dashed company mny morejust see if he would! In this manner his consent was won, and the next dny he applied to Capt. Boles for a transfer. The application should have been sent to certain superlor officers, but Capt. Bronaugh was unwilling for this to be done, for fear he might lose his trade.

"No use to hather Col. Lewis about a little thing like that," ho said to Boles. 'Just ict's wait till the thing has about had time to go through the rounds and then just swap the men ourselves.

Accordingly, some two weeks Inter, Ilruia was informed that his transfer had been granted, the two captnins exchanged the names and the trade was settled.

The next time the two captains met was several months later in Bosier parish, Louisiana, and-shall I confess it?-at a dance. If this statement should meet the eyes of any of his church officials, they are respectfully requested not to turn him out on account of it. The offease was committed over thirty years ago, and I do not really think be makes a practice of dancing to-day. However, he and Boles were both on the floor and dancing, when the latter exclaimed:
"Say, Bronaugh, I've got a crow

to pick with you."
"What is lt?" "You remember that fellow Jones you traded off on me? What dld you mean by teiling me ho was a good soldier?" "I never said it, Boles. I said he was the hest fighter I ever saw." 'Oh, that was It, was It? I believe you were right about it, too. He's whipped every private in my compauy airendy, and they say ho is going to begin on the officers next. There's no discount on his helng a fighter."

Tho last time Capt. Bronaugh ever saw Bruin was in the hospital at Meriphis. The first face he noticed when he entered the ward was his, and it was pale and still as death.

Hoping to he of some service to one at the bedside for a moment. Just then the closed eyes opened, the face lighted up with its old expression, and, in the half-stifled accents of death, the old stream of profaulty began to flow. Bruln was Brula to Hundreds of old confederate soldlers in Missouri will recall poor Bruin with a gliamer about the eyes that is hulf a smile and half a tear. Nobody knows what his first name really was; nobody ever know where he came from. It used to he asserted that he was from Arkansas, but perhaps this was merely from a humorous desire to lower the reputation of that state. No one knows who hls people were or what his past hlstory was. Let us hope, though, that He who knows all about him saw something in his early life that could account for the hardness of heart of this "Timon of Athens" of the confederacy and made some allowance accordingly. - St. Louis Republic.

A Political Frenk. If there is one thing that the public general, without respect to party, is agreed on, it is that the State Board of tiqualization, so called, is a cumbrous excreseent on the State, and something worse. It is a parasite which fattens on the boby politic by sucking its aubstauce, without giving flects that it was appointed to do the work which county assessors are elect-countles. This Board of Of Un-equalization has the arbitrary power to ignore and set aside the work of over one hundred county assessors, from Big Sandy to Jackson's l'urehase. And it exercises the power freely.

Politics, however, has its freaks, and one of the queerest of these is a But, though parting tear drops my look the iaet, that there was no reviv- into a passion, over a brief and inno- For the land where they cannot in al in business in any measurable ex- cent little paragraph in a recent issue

But does anyone believe that they were "satisfied" with the arbitrary manner in which the Board raised their taxes? On the contrary does not everybody know that the committees were sent by the various counties to see the Board and preventthem from increasing their taxes? We know the pur lose of the Christian county delegation was to effect a reduction of taxes. Still J. J. J. says:

"There wasn't one committee that complained of the Board's decision in regard to its county."

And yet the petty Secretary of the Board of Un equalization, after writing this self-evident talsehood, calls the Banner 'tan ignoraums or a professional political liar." Nobody lint an ignoranms would make such a palable misstatement.

DEANFIELD.

An Interesting Communication from the Northern Part of the County.

Deanfield or what is known as Altnaville in the post office guide is perhaps no stranger to a great portion of the State as we furnish a first class eoal here to the good people of this State as well as others, there is at mesent two mines in operation here the Thompson mine where the coal is hauled up an incline to the tipple where it is rnn through an Iron screen that vibrates and discharges at the north end. Slack, nut and lnmp, separate right into the flats where it Is run to the different places in the State for sale.

About two hundred yards above the Thompson mines Is the Miller & Dean mines or shall rather about 80 feet deep, the coal is raised up through two elevators, one ascending the other descending, the nules are also sent down on the elevators to work in the mines, this is also a fine vein of coai and the output when in full operation is not aurpassed by any one mine in the State,

Mr. D. S. Miller Is superintendent of this bank he; has associated with him, Gny Dean, of Owensboro, a firstclass gentleman, and blessed with plenty of good things of this world. Mr. Miller is a model superintendcut and one that sticks to his men and they to him. The outlook for the coming season is a prosperous oue for Deanfield. The Thompson mines has for its superintendent Mr. G. C. Roheits, a gentleman of ability and rare social qualities, and of gentlemanly deportment that characterizes the true gentleman, and the wish of the community is that we had more such men. The Company store-house at the Thompson mines presided over by Mr. Cy Watson, a young man of ability and great social qualities, which goes a long ways with the property of a store. Mr. William Day is clerk at the store at the Miller milnes, and we can truly congratulate the young lady that gets him, as she will never be in the dark, but will have one eternal Day, knows no night.

Mr. John Thompson, the genial young man who is right boss at the the Thompson mines is quite a favorite, in tact we are not surprised at this, as he wears a coat that is no kin to a rabbit, that is when it comes to good looking and can't help it; so

Histraining and breeding stables first brought hlm into notice several years ago and the grand success of his 1894 fair made him known over the State. The magnitude of his plans for the 1895 fair ls making his name familiar as a household word all over the Green River Country. The grandenr of bis new Fair buildings and the beauty of his large and up to date program, makes assurance doubly sure that his claim that his Fair is THE Fair of the Green River country, is simply the tinth. Since last I'sir he has planted out hundreds of forest shade trees, made beautiful carriage drives, which with the srtistleally designed flower beds, make the grounds the realization of a poet's dream. He has also made a new Race Track; half mile regulation 50 feet in width. The large 3 story Hotel is nesring completion; the 2story Floral Hall is well under way. as is also the 200 foot addition to the grand stand. All the bulldings are

Heavy Wind Storm. Tuesday's Owensboro Messenger

Quite a severe windstorm swept across the eastern part of the county yesterday aiternoon, doing considerahle damage in the vicinity of Pates. In that vicinity a number of large trees were blown down and twelve telegraph poles on the Texax railroad were laid low, stopping communication that way for some time. Freight train No. 61 on the Texas was delayed for over an hour at Pates. Two trees were hlown across the track and had to be cut away. Conductor Pulliam says that the trees two feet in diameter were broken off by the wind.

KATIE AND THE BEAR.

An Adventure in Which Sho Proved Horself a Herolne.

Bruin Was About to Leave the Premise in a Very Peaceful Manner, flut She Wnuldu't Ilave

Katie Rankin is a pretty tweatyyear-old school mistress in Cummings towaship. She is also a heroine, as an adveature in which she was the leading character has proved. A two-hundred and fifty fist; it brings so vividity to mind what pound bear was the other actor in the affair, and Katie's schoolhouse was the seene of the combat.

Just back of the one-story schoolhouse stretches a forest up and across the mountain, which rises five hundred feet or more. It is no uacommoa thiag to see bears or eatamounts la these woods. The knowledge that there were wild beasts about caused Katle Rankla to earry a revolver, for her boarding place is fully half a mile distant from the schoolhouse. One night snow fell in that local-Ity to the depth of twenty inches Next morning Miss Rankin started for her sehool, going quite enrly so that she could have the room warm before the pupils began to urrive.

On opening the door she was surprised to find one of the windows in the rear of the room wide open. It had apparently been open all uight, for the snow had drifted in.

Hurrying up the aisle to make fast to the stove. She was about to flee when the black form raised up, and she was surprised still more to find it not a man, but a big black bear.

She spraag to the door, but In her hurry to get Inside when she arrived a miaute before, she had failed to remove the key from the outside, and it had sprung shut, and thus was the now thoroughly alarmed girl made a prisoner-with a big black bear as a companion. Old Bruin sat up on his haunches and blinked at the terrified girl. At last, having surveyed her to his entire satisfaction, bruin gave a found grunt, showed two rows of tecth, then turned and shambled toward the window. With his forepaws on the sill he looked backward over his shoulder at Miss Rankln, who stood trembling at the door, then he raised his ponderous form and slid out iato the snow.

It was then that Miss Rankln bethought herself, and rammed her revolver. With this as a helpmate and the bear on the outside of the building all her bravery returned. She knew that brula could not well get back if she barricaded the windows, and she dld want to shoot a real, true bear so badly.

Oa going to the wladow she was coated creature to move.

She did not stop to think that bears are not usually shot with a revolver. She watched bruln flounder iu the snow, and knew that he could not get back to her, even though the first few shots dld no more than in-the firearm the bear jumped into the air several feet, then went rolling iato the saowdrlft. An instant later he was again on his feet, this time with his face toward the schoolhouso window. Agala Miss Rankin raised her pistol, this time taking aim for the bear's eye. The bear fell again into the snowdrift. This time he was slow to rise, and before he accomplished this another bullet went plowing into his body and he lay down to dle.

The shooting at the schoolhouse was heard by those at a furmhouse just across the creek, and several of the men folk came hurrying through the snow, one of them carrying a

The mnn with the gun made his way to where the bear lay and found that the beast was not dead. He raised his gun to fire the Unishing charge, but was stopped before ho could pull the trigger by Miss Rankin, who exclaimed: "Here, I want to kill that bear."

The rana stepped back and Miss Raukin, from her position at the window, sent another bullet Into tho woolly mass that lay partly hidden In the snowdrift.

Dutch Cure for Laziness.

The Dutch are not fond of lazy people, and they have a very good way of curing persons who can but won't work. If a pauper who is able to work refuses to do so they put him in a cistern, to which a pump is attached, and turn on a stream of water. This stream flows into the cistern just slowly enough to enable the lazy person by lively pumping to keep the water from getting up over his head .- Harper'a Young People.

A Sick linby in the Home. A great hush talls ou the car like a knell and an untold sadness settles like pall over the heart, for baby is siek. It is not strange that a wee little thing should have the power to chauge everything, making the suashine that hut yesterday played so merrily and bright in nad out of the window, seems such a cruel mockery to-day and change the joyous tones of the elder children into funeral notes. But such is the spell that baby has woven, kulttiag himselfiato the very meshea of our hearts in such a manner that we scarcely knew how dear he was natll the little form lies prostrate. What care we about the order of the work basket when the little haads that made such havoc therein scattering the buttons over the floor, pulling out the needles, uawinding reels and doing other inuumerable things are lying idle with lever coursing throught each fiager. And does Hartford Republican not everyone in the house share the solicitude making the anxious genereral, even Hatty leaves her work in the kitchen to make trequent inquirics shout baby, paps comes in an hour earlier than his usual, so aux. ious is he to learn how bsby is. But the most touching of all is the anxious face of the mother sitting at the sick couch, bending over the idol of her soul to kiss the little cheek so hright with fever, while her heart ascends to the one who seat her darling n petition that the sufferer may soon be restored to health, and as her glance fell on the cloak and hood so lately wora, what wonder that the tears fell may be. But need we dwell on those who have known what it is to have an empty cloak and hood that never more will be filled by the loved form for which they were made, will know why mama's tears fell. D. M.

When the people elected 244 Republican Congressmen last fall, instead of 121 in the previous and only 111 it day by day, as on which the school Democrats and Populists, ngainst 229 Is-[Oral Instruction in Primary Geia the previous Congress, practical business men began to prepare for a revival of industries and trade. It did not come until locomotives and trains. that Congress had been abolished by the expiraion of its term of power.

If our Democratic frieads enjoy befooling themselves with the notion that voters do not see these facts, they are quite welcome. It is part of their function in life to blind themselves so that they may more surely lead a blind party into the ditch. When the people voted for Democrahand into her coat pocket for her cy in 1892, they were plainly and most earnestly warned that such a decision would bring great disaster. It came on thue, but bigger than anybody expected, and the people took note of the fact. They also saw that disaster came before the Democratic party had time to make any change surprised to find that the bear had in the laws, and came because of the not yet gone more than ten feet to- public certainty that the things that ward the wood. The snow was deep party proposed to do would be ruin. and of such a feathery nature that it ous, and although it finally accomwas next to impossible for the woolly- plished not a teath part of the mischief it threatened, it brought ruin enough to last for a generatiou.

In the same way the people were earnestly assured last fall that voting for the restoration of power to the Republican party would bring back prosperity. They had sease enough Simultaneously with the report of to believe it, and the prosperity is dida't make any motion to go, coming on time. Nobody imagined years by the Democrats would be undone at ouce; still less that it could all be undone before a Republican Congress could meet and begin its work. But the certaluty that power had been transferred and that there would be no more mischief-making or ignorant blundering but instead earnest work by competent statesman table. I say table, because there to set things right, was enough of wa'nt authin' else left. Mary felt it itself to light thousands of fires and to open the doors of thousands of factories and mills, restoring wages also to several hundred thousand workers. The people take note of the fact that the strong confidence of practical bus iness men in the Republican party and policy brings a large measure of improvement, even before it ean alter the laws just as the well-deserved and prolound distrust of the Demoeratic party brought great disaster before it had time todo any mischievous law-making.

These two lesson will be remema bered for a long time by voters who have common sense. There are enough of these in the Democratic party, as the voting last fall proved, to destroy that party in more than half the Coagressional districts it formerly carried. If the Democratic leaders choose to go on betooling themselves, and giving blind guidaace to the bliad, while Democratic voters are getting educated by events, so much the worse for the leaders .-[N.
